AUTO OWNERSHIP TO BE SIFTED IN COURT

Whether or not an automobile, seized in the alleged transportation of liquor, but owned by persons not participating in the liquor traffic, can be recovered by the owners, is the question involved in the case of the state against Edward C. Martin, which is being heard in Judge George S. Barker's division of the district court today before jury.

The automobile was seized July 3, when Officer C. E. Leiser of the police department said he found two quarts of liquor in the machine.

A claim has now being made by the General Motors Acceptance company, that they still retain title to the car, in that it was sold to Martin by the Watson-Buick Auto company of Ogden, which in turn sold the title-retaining note to the state. The claim that $513.30 still remains unpaid on the car and they still hold the note.

Mrs. Lillian Martin, wife of the defendant, also has filed claim, alleging that she purchased the machine on a partnership basis with her husband and now claims her share. She declares that she had no knowledge that the car was being used for transportation of liquor.

The machine is a Buick five-passenger and is being held by the state pending the outcome of the case.
